

TRIMONT ANNOUNCES THE PROMOTION OF THREE SENIOR LEADERS

Following a String of New Hires and Global Growth, the Firm Recognizes Outstanding Members of Its Core Leadership Team

ATLANTA (September 9, 2019) – Trimont Real Estate Advisors, the global leader in outsourced commercial real estate financial services, today announces the promotion of three senior leaders: London-based Bill Sexton has been named President, EMEA; in Atlanta, Mitchell Hunter has been named President, Americas; and Jeff Bolte has been named Chief Information Officer, Global. All three positions will report into Brian Ward, Global CEO of Trimont.

“We pride ourselves on hiring and cultivating team members who are aligned with Trimont’s core values of mastery, individuality and serving. This latest round of promotions recognizes senior leaders who not only embody these fundamentals but understand the complexities of our industry and what it takes to be the preeminent global service provider in our sector,” said Ward. “Trimont’s continued mission is to be the clear choice for more complex, bespoke credit management, servicing and due diligence services, and Bill, Mitchell and Jeff understand what it takes to lead, mentor and deliver on this objective.”

Previously serving as Senior Managing Director, EMEA, Bill Sexton will now operate as President to the region, overseeing a rapidly expanding European platform with the addition of key leaders that include Paul Robinson, who leads Trimont’s Investment Advisory Services business line for EMEA, and Dean Harris, who leads Trimont’s Credit & Asset Management business line for EMEA. Sexton has almost 30 years of commercial real estate experience and was a co-founder of Mount Street, based in London.

Mitchell Hunter, who previously served as the Senior Managing Director of the Americas Region, will now take on added responsibilities as the President, overseeing Credit & Asset Management, Operational Services and Investment Advisory Services business lines, as well as the U.S.-based Client Services functions. Hunter has been with Trimont for more than 20 years.

Jeff Bolte, who served as a Managing Director of Trimont’s Global Information Services team, will now lead the company’s worldwide technology, information and security initiatives as its Global CIO, including the advancement of Trimont’s industry-leading data analytics tools via Triview<sup>SM</sup>. Bolte’s role will further drive the company’s mission to create next-generation solutions by integrating human capital, data, information and security to its global clientele.

Prior to the promotions, Trimont recently announced six new hires to its London office, as well as the launch of its newest global office in Sydney, Australia. The company also recently announced the addition of key members to its Investment Advisory Services business in the Americas region joining from Cushman & Wakefield.
